Defense Funds Slashed by a Half Billion

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today cut more than half a billion dollars from Defense Department construction fund requests. It cited the new Air Force Academy as an outstanding example of "loose fiscal procedures."

It slashed $511,838,000 from the $1,730,653,000 requested by the administration for construction programs at military bases in the United States and abroad.

The Air Force was given the biggest cut, $30 million dollars from the $1,001,500,000 it requested.

The Navy's bid for $368,253,000 was trimmed by $85,502,000, while the Army's request for $346,000,000 was pared by $120,330,000.

Project after project, including such items as officers' swimming pools and elaborate housing accommodations, was cut out completely or sharply slashed as undesirable or "certainly not essential."

The committee was especially critical of policies and practices relating to construction of the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Many buildings at the academy, the committee said, were increased in scope and cost without congressional approval until after binding contracts had been approved.

"A typical example of the lack of realistic planning" in connection with the academy, the committee said, was Air Force approval of floor-to-ceiling blackboards on all four walls of classrooms.

In an effort to curb future spending at the academy, the committee urged the House to clamp a ceiling of $120,707,000 on the total cost of the academy. It cut a million dollars from the $1,372,000 requested for the present year.

Cliff Shaw Is Hurt in Wreck

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP) — Cliff Shaw of Little Rock, commissioner of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference, escaped with minor injuries when his automobile overturned four times near here during a heavy rain yesterday.

Shaw said the vehicle overturned in a ditch when it was forced off U. S. Highway 79 by an approaching car.

He was taken to Ouachita General Hospital, but was dismissed this morning after remaining overnight for observation. His injuries were confined to cuts and bruises.

Soil Bank Signing to Start Sept. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced today it will start about Sept. 1 signing contracts with farmers for retiring additional cropland in 1959 under the conservation reserve of the soil bank program. The signing period will close about Oct. 10.

The department also announced it has settled on $13.50 an acre as the average rental payment it will pay for land taken out of production under this program compared with $10 this year. The $13.50 rate had been proposed several weeks ago.

The department hopes to get about 12½ million acres retired for periods of three to ten years. Farmers who retire all their cropland under the soil bank program this year will be given priority over all others in the signup campaign.

Senate Strips Ike of Some Trade Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today stripped from the reciprocal trade extension bill a provision sharply curtailing the powers of President Eisenhower to operate the trade program.

This was a substantial victory for the President in what was expected to be the key floor Senate vote over the trade legislation. There were indications the Middle East crisis had helped.

The provision stripped from the bill by the Senate vote was sponsored in the Finance Committee by Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okl).

The vote on the amendment to strike was 63-27.

The effect of knocking out the amendment was to return to present law governing operations of the T.A.E. which has power to reject a Taft-Hartley bill.

Under the law now, the President can still use his authority to extend Commission funding for relief of industry claiming damage from foreign imports in a clause case.

Supporters of reciprocal trade hoped for passage by tonight of the bill to extend the trade program, leaving it up to a Senate-House conference committee to agree on more liberal terms than those recommended by the Senate Finance Committee. The House voted substantially what Eisenhowers asked.

U. S. Marine Killed by American Sentry

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A U.S. Marine was killed before dawn today when he failed to answer a challenge from a sentry at a Marine outpost near the airport.

An officer said the Marine was returning from a mission.

"He was challenged this time by the sentry," the officer said. "When he failed to answer, the sentry fired and hit him in the stomach."

The wounded man was taken to an American warship by helicopter but died before an operation could be performed.

The name of the dead Marine was withheld until his family was notified.

He had been laying trip flares in front of a Marine outpost near the airport. Trip flares explode, illuminating a wide area.

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP) — Water flowed as deep as 18 inches in some residential areas here last night when a heavy rain inundated the city.

Unofficial estimates put the downtown at more than three inches during a 6-hour period that ended at midnight.

The rain was accompanied by a lightning display and a bolt struck an Arkansas Power & Light Co. line, causing a brief interruption of service in some areas.

Police said about a dozen cars reportedly were drowned out during the flash flooding.

By midnight the rains had eased and water was receding rapidly.

Permit Now Required to Erect Signs

At a regular meeting last night Hope's Board of Directors passed a resolution requiring a permit for the erection of all signs on city streets or highways.

The resolution included political or any other type of sign. Permits can be secured from the City Manager.

Free parking zones were issued to Delaney's Grocery, Home Furniture Co. and Easy Pay Tire Store.

Doug Jester and Thompson Simpson, representing a group seeking to lease a city-owned building at the Airport for a Dance Club, were instructed to meet with the City Attorney and the City Manager to draw up a lease.

Director Rolla Fitch said his agents destroyed 119 stills with a potential output of more than 200,000 gallons of liquor annually. Also destroyed were 684 gallons of moonshine liquor and 27,463 gallons of mash.

The number of retail beer permits issued in the 1957-58 period was only 2,800 compared with 3,002 in the previous fiscal year, the report said. There also were three fewer liquor permits in effect than in the previous year.

Increase in Illicit Moonshine Stills

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Illicit stills continued to increase while legal beer and liquor permits declined during the past fiscal year.

On the 30th anniversary of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Department reported today.

Director Rolla Fitch said his agents destroyed 119 stills with a potential output of more than 200,000 gallons of liquor annually. Also destroyed were 684 gallons of moonshine liquor and 27,463 gallons of mash.

The resolution was introduced by Rep. Chris Finkbeiner, D-Louisville, and Lee Ward, underwent a siege of boozing and catcalling at a Pine Bluff rally Saturday night.

Finkbeiner, who also spoke on that occasion was roundly applauded.

The Fayetteville hecklers were of college age. They began jeering after Faubus was introduced.

One youth who refused to give his name to a newsman thrust a placard which read "Human Rights First Then States Rights."

Later the sign was waved by another youth who identified himself as Pat Parker of El Dorado, a student at the University of Arkansas.

The Paragould chamber of commerce charged yesterday that a member of Gov. Orval Faubus' campaign staff had sought to pay him to get out of the gubernatorial race.

His allegation was denied by Arnold Sikes, the governor's campaign manager.

"This is the biggest lie that has come out of the campaign," Sikes declared. "We did not ask Ward to do this race and we would not have done it if we had known about it."

charge by Ward that a member of the governor's campaign headquarters tried to pay the Paraguayan chancellor to withdraw from the gubernatorial race.

Today Faubus planned to visit Greenwood, Charleston and Clarksville.

Finkbeiner said Faubus was unconcerned over getting a three percent sales tax in a program aimed at giving the increased revenue to teachers and thus taking "your tax money to fatten his own political nest."

Added Finkbeiner: "The third term candidate is insincere—he is power-loving and will do anything to get back in for two more years."

Finkbeiner challenged Faubus' contention that more than 36,000 new industrial jobs had been established in the past three and one-half years. The Little Rock candidate asserted that Arkansas actually lost 8,000 manufacturing jobs between 1956 and 1958.

He said Faubus had "created a terrible industrial climate...in Arkansas, as evidence by these figures."

crowd mentioned something to Faubus about the heckling.

The governor laughed and said, "That's all right, it's their privilege."

Faubus touched only briefly on the Little Rock integration crisis during his campaign visits to Fayetteville and other northwest Arkansas points.

But he stressed his contention that he had battled for states rights.

"If you want a man who will surrender and abdicate the powers of the state, I am not the man," he said. "I want to rule in a way that will please the people of Arkansas in accordance with their desires."

Faubus also visited Rogers, Bentonville, Gravette, Decatur, Gentry, Siloam Springs and Fort Smith.

Winding up the day with a television speech at Fort Smith, the governor noted that opponent Lee Ward would make a campaign talk at Huntsville, Faubus' home town, tomorrow night.

"I know people in that area will accord him every courtesy and give him a hearing," Faubus said.

After adding that it was Ward's right to speak at Huntsville, the governor said, "Give Judge Ward a hearing and give me your votes. Perhaps then both of us will be satisfied with his appearance there."

Faubus made no reference to a me a bribe...to withdraw from the race."

He also said:

"I am confident that the voters of this state will prove to him that he can't buy this election, or steal it, or stampede the voters of Arkansas into giving him a third term."

Ward worked on his speech all day yesterday. Tomorrow he is scheduled to make a speech at Faubus' home town of Huntsville.

Like its parent Texas Eastern, subsidiary La Gloria Oil and Gas Company is versatile...having a variety of interests in several fields of activity.

La Gloria owns and operates one of the largest natural gas cycling plants in the world, at Falfurrias, Texas. It processes some 320 million cubic feet of natural gas each day to recover approximately 10,500 barrels of liquids including natural gasoline, kerosene, butane and propane.

As a production and exploration company, La Gloria occupies a commanding position. The company has under lease approximately 68,000 producing acres and some 103,000 acres of land as yet undeveloped for production, in the states of Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma. During 1957 La Gloria accounted for production of 2,588,300 barrels of crude oil and 25 billion cubic feet of natural gas from its producing wells.

Early in 1957, La Gloria acquired McMurry Refining Company, Tyler, Texas. La Gloria now has one of the nation's most modern refineries at Tyler. This refinery is a custom producer of automotive and aviation gasolines in the high octane range. The Tyler refinery also produces a multitude of by-products, including petroleum coke for industry, aromatic distillate for paint solvents, carbon black oil essential in manufacturing tires and ints., specialty products for fertilizers and insecticides...high purity hydrocarbons and alkylates for top-quality fuels for today's modern jet aircraft.

The activities of La Gloria typify the Texas Eastern diversification pattern, which has enabled the company to keep pace with the fast changing national economy.

Khrushchev that he has full opportunity under the U.N. Charter to get the Security Council to enlarge its consideration of the Middle East problem if he wants to do so.

British favored a declaration of more positive readiness to attend such a meeting, and Macmillan and Lloyd faced the necessity of having a policy statement to the House of Commons today.

This public announcement of British policy evidently forced decisions in Washington as well as London.

MIDDLE EAST
By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON AP—The Western powers plan to tell the Soviet Union today the United Nations—not an emergency summit conference—is the place to seek a solution for the Middle East crisis.

Western diplomats said Soviet Premier Khrushchev's response to this turnabout of his newest summit meeting proposal may be to go personally to U. N. headquarters in New York. There he could press the Soviet charge that U. S. and British military actions in Lebanon and Jordan have threatened to plunge the world into war.

There has been considerable speculation that the U. S., British and French notes would open the way for a summit parley at the U. N. Officials said they might be so interpreted if Khrushchev is seriously intent on getting a top-level meeting.

In messages to Eisenhower, Macmillan, De Gaulle and Prime Minister Khrushchev Saturday proposed a summit conference at Geneva beginning today.

Officials here said privately that Western leaders had no intention of being rushed into a summit session by threats and propaganda pressures from Moscow.

Diplomats said that the tensions created by the Middle East crisis, worldwide fears of an outbreak of war and Khrushchev's call for a crash conference had unquestionably combined to revive prospects for an overall summit conference later this year.

Apparently with this in mind, the State Department in a public statement prodded Khrushchev for a reply to a letter from President Eisenhower July 1 urging him to accept procedures for working out a summit meeting agenda.

AP&L Forces Well First of 1958

NEW YORK (AP) — Business was better than ever for Middle South Utilities Inc. in the recession straddled first half of 1957.

Profits jumped by 16.2 per cent over the first six months of 1957 and revenues rose 8 per cent. Company officials attributed the gains in part to the severe cold wave which hit the Louisiana area early in the year and to a steady growth in domestic electric consumption in the MidSouth.

Net income for six months was $8,237,000 or $1.15 per common share against $7,818,000 or $1.03 a share in the like period of 1957. Operating revenues totaled $88,868,000 against $80,007,000 in the first half last year.

Middle South subsidiaries supply electricity, natural gas, transit and water service to parts of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi.

Arkansas Power & Light Co. is one of its subsidiaries. While utility earnings are fairly stable in times of recession, few companies have shown such sharp increases as Middle South.

Hope's Little All-Stars Stop Smackover 4 to 3

Hope's Little League All-Stars stopped a last inning Smackover rally home to win last night at Smackover to edge the Smackover All-Stars 4 to 3 for the Area Little League title. Larry Thrash grabbed a hard hit one-hopper at third bases with the bases loaded and tagged the bag to end the inning.

Hope picked up two valuable runs in the first when Richard McDowell was hit by the pitcher and Tony Purle blasted a liner over the left center field wall to give the locals a 2 to 1 lead.

Both teams went scoreless in the second but Smackover came back in the bottom of the third with one run when Hays singled to right advanced to second on a fielder's choice and scored on House's single through the hole over second.

In Hope's half of the fifth, Buddy Jordan singled to right, then Mac McLarty doubled to right center scoring Jordan. McLarty rounded second trying for third, and when the relay from the right fielder bounded over the third and when the relay from the right fielder bounded over the third baseman, Mac scooted home with the last of Hope's runs.

The locals took the field in the bottom of the last inning with a 4 to 1 lead. But with one away, Mitchum reached first on an infield error that pulled McDowell off the bag at first, Leggett walked forcing Mitchum to second then Law singled scoring Mitchum and moving Leggett to third. Then Thomas got on another infield error, sparing Leggett. Reaves was hit by the pitcher to load the bases. Tony Purle, bearing down, then struck out Dorsey. Primm followed with his one-hopper to Thrash who stepped on third and ended the threat.

Tony Purle, pitching a fine game for Hope gave up only 4 hits and struck out 9. Primm, one of the finest little control pitchers in this area gave up 7 hits to the locals and struck out 10.

Hitting for Hope were Purle with a home run and a single. McLarty with a double, and McDowell, Walker, Jordan and McLellan each with a single.

They play Monday, July 28, at Pine Bluff.

Cardinals Win Over Braves in 14 Innings

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

What makes National League race so tough? A playing pattern that gives you a three-game sweep from a club one week then the next a loss to the same bunch a week later.

Ask the Milwaukee Braves and the Chicago Cubs.

The Braves, with a chance to regain first place from idle San Francisco, blew 3-0 and 4-3 leads Monday night and were bent on 5-14 in innings by the St. Louis Cardinals. Curt Flood's sixth homer gave it to the Cards, who lost three in a row to the Braves at St. Louis a week ago.

And the Cubs, who swept Cincinnati in three last week, were belted 9-4 by the Redlegs Monday night in the only other game scheduled.

No games were scheduled in the American League.

The Braves remain a full game behind the Giants, who open a road trip tonight at Philadelphia. The Cubs now are just a game ahead of the fourth-place Cardinals. 5½ games behind the Giants. The Reds jumped from eighth to fifth.

Low Burdette, whose error gave the Cardinals a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning, was handed a 4-3 lead on Joe Adcock's 13th homer in the Milwaukee seventh. But Wally Moon sent it into extra innings with a ninth-inning homer, his second off Burdette, now 9-8.

The winner was relieved Bill Wright, who blanked the Braves on four hits over the last 6 2-3 innings for his first National League victory.

Howton, of Rice, is an All-pro for the Green Bay Packers. Richter, of California, made the All-Pro second team last year as a linebacker for the Los Angeles Rams. Rose, ex-Southern Methodist back, is a end for the New York Giants.

The Redlegs breezed against the Cubs, although Harvey Haddix had his troubles in the ninth before gaining a 6-3 record. Cal Neeman, who belted a two-run double earlier, hit his ninth homer, and Tony Taylor doubled with one out, but Haddix wrapped it up after Taylor was nalled at the plate trying to score on a single.

Bob Thuman hit a three-run homer for the Reds in the seventh, but they had it bagged in a four-run fourth. Rookie Marcelino Solis lost his first major league decision as George Crowe lined a bases-loaded double for two runs. Two more scored on a force-out and Roy McMillan's single.

Good Hurling Brings Orioles Out of Cellar

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Okay, so Manager Paul Richards has some different idea about baseball. But his Baltimore Orioles in third place in the American League Race? How unorthodox can you get?

Yet that's where the Birds were sitting as they opened a two-week tour of the West at Chicago. They're 14½ games behind the New York Yankees, but they're only 3½ shy of second-place Boston.

The Orioles moved to third by taking two of three from Cleveland last weekend while Detroit lost three of four at Boston and slipped to fourth.

The Orioles have won 8 of 12 since the All-Star break in a jump from seventh to third.

Pitching has been the answer for the Birds, who have improved their standing each season since gaining the old St. Louis franchise in 1954. They were seventh in '54 (and again in '55), although they won three more games in their second season, sixth in '56 and fifth last year.

With the likes of Jack Harshman (late of the White Sox), Arnie Portocarrero (late of the A's) and Billy O'Dell and Mill Pappas, a couple of home grown kids, the Orioles are just one game under .500. The pitching staff has a record of 30 complete games, the same as the White Sox, and second only to the Yankees '36.

The Yankees are at Detroit tonight, Boston is at Kansas City and Washington's at Cleveland for a twight-night pair.

No games were scheduled in the AL Monday.

In the only two scheduled games in the National League, Milwaukee missed a chance to regain first place from idle San Francisco in a 14-inning, 5-4 defeat by St. Louis and Cincinnati beat the Chicago Cubs 9-4.

Pike's Duelling Pistol Re-appears

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Albert Pike's duelling pistol is back in its display case at the Old State House here after a 7-week disappearance.

Francis Gwaltney, research assistant at the museum, said two bullets made off with the valuable memento.

State Police brought it back yesterday.

Officers said they located the relic through a tip. The youths had sold it for $15.

"Some historians would pay thousands for it," Gwaltney said. The official said Pike ordered the pistol from England about 1846 and probably used it in a duel with Arkansas Gov. John S. Roane in 1848.

Gwaltney said the governor, and Pike, an attorney, were "friendly political enemies." Pike criticized Roane's soldiering record in the Mexican War and Roane challenged him to a duel.

By FRANK GRUBER
Chapter XXII

Rosser got the lamp from the table, brought it to the cot. He thrust it into the hand of the clerk. "Hold it close," he bent over Moody and already knowing where to look, examined the wound on the side of Moody's head.

It was no more than a deep cut. Shock had carried Moody to the hotel, then reaction had set in and he had collapsed. The slight wound would scarcely require the services of Dr. Kent . . . if Dr. Kent was still able to care for patients.

Rosser got water, found some sheets in a closet and ripped off strips. He had washed the wound and was about to bandage it when the door of the room was pushed in by Dr. Kent.

"You, Rosser," the doctor growled.

Dr. Kent came across the room, bent over Josh Moody. "It's just a cruse." He took the bandage from Rosser, began twisting it about the Mayor's head. Moody groaned and tried to sit up.

"In a minute, Josh," the doctor said.

He tucked in the end of the bandage, gave the mayor a hand to help him to a sitting position. Moody shook his head, wince and looked at Kent, then at Rosser.

"How bad was it?" he asked.

"Plenty bad," the doctor replied.

Rosser noted then the soggy stain on the doctor's own left arm. "You stopped over yourself, Doctor," he said.

Kent shook his head. "A flesh wound." He regarded Rosser thoughtfully. "We walked into the trap."

Rosser shrugged. "What did you expect?"

"Nothing—from you" snapped Josh Moody. "You'll do me a favor by getting your luggage and moving out of this hotel."

"You may have your room soon enough," Rosser said.

"By noon."

"In a day or two."

"You'll get out today."

"Josh," said Dr. Kent, "you can't blame Rosser for our failure."

"If he isn't with us, he's against us."

"That's why Condor's put a price of $2,500 on my scalp," Rosser asked drily.

Moody stared at him. "That's nonsense."

"I heard about it," Kent looked sharply at Rosser. "It isn't just a rumor."

Rosser shrugged. "Maybe that's all it is—a rumor."

He walked out.

In the lobby, fully dressed, was James Fenimore Fell. He was pacing savagely back and forth. As Rosser came around the desk, Fell saw him.

"Here you are. I banged on your door . . . He strode toward Rosser, brandishing his fist.

"I told you to stop the vigilantes," he raged. "I warned you what would happen if you didn't."

"What's going to happen?"

"You're through. Fired."

"All right," said Rosser, "I'm fired. Now fire the vigilantes."

"They'll listen to me, or I'll break them, every mother's son of them. I'll ruin them. That's what they've done to me and so help me . . ."

Rosser pointed to the door behind the desk. "The two leading vigilantes are in there. Go ahead—tell them what you're going to do to them . . ."

"You think I won't?"

Fell gave Rosser a contemptuous look and strode behind the desk. He slammed open the door and stormed into the hotel-mayor's room. For a moment, Rosser heard the rumbling of Fell's voice as he denounced the vigilantes. Then the sharper voice of Dr. Kent interrupted and was shouted down by the roar of Jim Fell's most thundering denunciation.

The real dawn was lightening the sky as Rosser left the hotel and stood on the veranda.

The syndicate's guards were again posted at strategic points around the street. In front of Riley Condor's Pleasure Palace were several shapeless forms. Vigilantes, who had been left where they had fallen.

The sheriff stepped out of the marshal's office across the street. Rosser crossed to him, but as he stepped up on the porch, Johnny Honsinger came out of the office.

"You with these so-called vigilantes?" he asked nastily.

"If it meant anything," Rosser said deliberately, "I wouldn't give you the time of the day, but since you're through, I don't mind telling you. No, I wasn't with them."

"Through?" snarled Honsinger. "Who says I'm through?"

"You licked some of the people," Rosser said. "But you can't kill all of the people and insid[e] of a day or two, three days at the most, you're going to have to face all of the people in this town. And then you're through."

"Nobody can tell him anything," Parker said soberly.

"I'm getting fed up with you," the marshal snarled at Parker. "You ain't don' a bit of good here to anybody. You might just as well climb on your horse and get back to wherever you came from."

"I may do that, Johnny," the sheriff said, "after I've attended your funeral."

"You want to try for that funeral?" Honsinger asked ominously.

"Just say the word . . ."

"Perhaps I will," said the sheriff. "When I'm ready."

He turned his back on the marshal and re-entered the office. Honsinger shifted his glowering eyes on Rosser. "That goes for you, old man. Any time—any place."
